

Набор предложений для блочного контроля на перевод с английского языка на русский по пройденному лексическому и грамматическому материалу (II курс, IV семестр).

I блок

1. Computer systems differ from assembly systems in that they translate from a source-language into a machine oriented language.
2. The provision for power supply is the problem to be solved.
3. The density of a body can be found providing its mass and volume are known.
4. It is necessary that the measurement should be accurate.
5. The concept is likely to be erroneous.
6. A human being may be considered to be a control system with many inputs and outputs capable of carrying out complex operations.
7. The information to be fed into the computer is important for us.
8. Radar is known to be the kind of navigational equipment.
9. There are many situations where several variables are to be controlled simultaneously by a number of inputs.
10. For the decision to be correct all the facts must be considered.

II блок

1. While improving the operation of the system engineers used a newly designed computer.
2. Being perfected the device operated successfully under all conditions.
3. New data being obtained are necessary for future investigations.
4. Electronic computers having appeared, we could solve the most complex problems of science.
5. Great efforts have been made to develop automation, electronic computers being "brains" of computer system.
6. No errors were found in the calculation, the program having been carefully controlled.